NO GREAT RISE IN RIVER AT RICHMOND

Ten Feet Will Be the Maximum Here Unless More Rain Falls.

Reports from the upper James River valley at midnight last night indicate that the rise in the river had reached and passed its height and was falling at the points above this city, at which the prospects of high water here are usually gauged. At high tide last night the water at the Lower Gas Works was but little more than six feet and rising very slightly, almost imperceptibly. The rise yesterday and fears of a se rious freshet caused considerable bustle in the lower parts of the city, both among residents of Eulton flatlands near Gillies Creek and along the wharves and busi-

Creek and along the wharves and business, sites in the eastern section of the river. The rising waters reached the floor of the wharves and caused considerable activity removing merchandise from possible danger of submersion or loss or damage.

Reports from official records at Columbia at 11 P. M. indicated that the water had passed its height there and was slowly falling, the gauge then indicating a height of 20 8-10 feet. The greatest height attained there had been 21 6-10 feet. The highest water is now approachfeet. Justice of the Peace J. A. Purdle, of D. R. Thomas, a negro, of Globe, Art., who is advocating a plan by which all by the government. In the letter received by Mr. Purdle is a petition which asked for contributions for the purpose of establishing a fund, part of which is to go into the hands of the said D. R. Thomas, and part to be used by the African colony to be established, and also a blank form to be filled out by some erson who desires to become an agent of the "company."

In the early part of the year 'Squire Purdle received a letter from the same negro. The request was made that the names of several prominent negro men in names of several prominent acgro men in the city be sent to him. The proposition was stated in the letter. Willing to oblige a person who was pushing a scheme by which all the negroes were to be sent to Africa. Mr. Purdle answered ten letter and sent the names of several well known negro men. He received a reply asking him to arrange for the renting of a hall in which a convention might be held and definite steps taken to push the propo-

Stion. 'Squire Purdle now only acts as justice for the Second Police District, but is at the head of J. A. Purdle & Co., and says he has business enough to keep him busy without engaging in a business that will keep him renting halls for negro conventions. He answered to this effect. Nothing was heard until this week, when a letter, dated July 8th, was received. This epistle reads: "We enclose herewith some papers and request that collecting sheet No. 28. Then the agent starts out with the petition."

The petition sets out that "an honor-able citizens will please sign this peri-tion," which is to be to the Prosi-Pat able citizens will please sign this peri-tion," which is to be to the President and to Congress, asking that a home in home is to extend five hundred an less by one thousand niles, more or less, "for the ex-slaves and their offspring." It is to be protected by the United States, government for ten years. All the negroes who want to go are to be sent; all of those out of employment are to be sent any two-thirds of all the ngro convicts are to depart for Africa. This is the scheme that D. R. Thomas, the instigator, wants to send to Congress.

In the application that is to be signed by the person who becomes an agent is tis clause: "Acknowledged by the United States Government May 29, 1991, and February 18, 1994."

MUCH FIRE IN THE CAMPAIGN

Senatorship Struggle is Both Bitter and Excit-

ESTIMATES OF PAST YEARS

Congressmen Jones and Hay Make Warm Thrusts Over Matter.

The United States senatorial campaign has reached an exceedingly flery stag-and apart from the charges and counter charges that are being made by the prin-cipals, their friends are indulging in a good deal of crossfiring through the newspapers.

The Petersburg Index-Appeal is one of the strongest supporters of the can-didacy of Sonator Martin in Virginia, and has made a number of editoria thrusts at Governor Montague since the Sumpaign opened.
Someone has taken the pains to search the flies of the Index-Appeal, and to reproduce a number of editorials therefrom, written during the great MartinLee struggle, of 1893.

Is Rather Severe.

Is Rather Severe.

One of these editorlats, dated November 25, 1893, is as follows:

"We hear a great deal nowadays about the senatorial candidacy of Mr. Tom Martin, of Albemarle, Who is Mr. Tom Martin, of Albemarle, myhow?"

In its issue of December 28, 1893, the index-Appeal says editorlally:

"Mr. Martin got his Christmus present at little ahead of the season; but Santa Claus did not add to his reputation as a discret dispenser of political plums when he bestowed the gift. However, much will be forgiven it the old saint promises to do so more."

The same paper, on December 9, 1893, after expressing doubt as to whether a case of bribery could be made out at the investigation:

"We are prepared to say, however, that any United States Senator whose election was accomplished through obligations imposed upon members of the Legislature could not be regarded as the choice of the people, or of the majority of its party. Moreover, if such methods are countenanced, it will become almost impossible in the future for the people to make their wishes felt and their influence supræme in matters of the highest importance to the State."

"The Investigation."

The Investigation. On December 19, 1823, the following is said concerning the scope of the inves-ligation: "The investigation of alleged frauds in said concerning the scope of the investigation:

"The investigation of alleged frauds in the late election in this State by the committee of which Mr. Nicoli la chairman is conducted on such a introvegauge plan as to impress disinterested people that Scnator Musiback was right when he said that it was 'n committee to conceal, not to reveal. This is very unfortunate for the Democratic party, as well as for Mr. Martin and his friends, Indeed it is a gross injustice to the latter, because, if innocent of the allegations against them, they are antitled to the fullest exoneration which can conic only through the most faitfulinous investigation."

For the Primary.

Under date of August 11, 1857, the Index-Appeal deplores the detect of the primary resolutions, offered by Congressman W. H. Jones, at Roanoke, and says:
"And yet it is hard to understand why Senator Martin's interests as candidate are more imperfilled than General Lee's, Major Tyler's, Mr. Jones's or those of any other probable candidate for Mr. Martin's seat. Such an assumption seems to us not only violent but exceedingly unjust to Mr. Martin, it not only easy unspicion upon the methods he may adopt to secure the nomination hereafter, but it gives color to the uncharitable intimations against the means employed in his lirst election." For the Primary.

Jones and Hay.

Jones and Hay.

But the spiciest publications are those from the pen of Congressmen Jones and Hay, the former a Montague and tha latter a Martin supporter. Mr. Jones wrote a scathing arraignment of Senator Martin's official career under date of June 2s, 190s, to the Leesburg Mirror, charging mainly that the junior Senator's friends are claiming much of the credit which should properly go to Senator Daniel for procuring the passage of bills through the Senate, Mr. Hay made a tiery attack where the senate, Mr. Hay made a tiery attack where the senate, Mr. Hay made a tiery attack where the senate, Mr. Hay made a tiery attack where the senate, Mr. Hay made a tiery attack where the senate, Mr. June Martin, and denies many of Mr. Jones's statements. Senator Daniel has also given out an interview in which he again defends his colleague and reiterates that the latter is not taking credit from him.

A Warm Passage.

Assuming was heard until this week, when a letter, dated July 8th, was rescued to the latter is not taking credit from him.

A Warm Passage.

In his letter, Mr. Jones anys:

In all cites and towns, I wrote your from any State in the Union who would have so little reserved to the same.

"We shall also want regular agents in all cites and towns, I wrote your from any State in the Union who would have so little reserved to the same."

"We shall also want regular agents in all cites and towns, I wrote your from any State in the Union who would have so little reserved for his representation and the same."

In making his answer, Mr. Hay takes directly the opposite view, when he says: "Tha letter displays a lack of accurate informatic; about the happenings in Congress under his own eye, and an ignorance of the organization and names of the committees of the Senate that are simply ameging.

committees of the Senate that are simply amazing.
"The predominant idea running through the entire letter is that Senator Martin, personally and through his friends, is putting up an undue and arrogant claim of services to his constituents, the people of Virginia; and this, too, in derogation of the just chaims of Senator Daniel. Now, the truth is that those two Senators are fast, cordial and confidential friends and that at all times, and especially in this campaign, they have yied in according credit, each to the other, for services to the Virginia people in the national Senate."

Mr. Jones goes on to specify many

Ir. Jones goes on to specify many castree for which he says Senator Mari got the credit, when Senator Daniel is really entitled to it, and Mr. Hay kes them up one by one, and undertees to show that Mr. Jones is entirely mistaken.

And so the senatorial contest moves briskly on, overshadowing all other buttes, and stirring the polltimus shall the voters from one end of the State to the other.

Makes Good With People.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RADFORD, VA., July 14.—LeutenantGovernor Willard addressed a good audience at the Opera House tonight, and was listened to with the closest attention in a speech which, though not oratorical, was manly, modest and practical, and imbued with high, clean principles and sound business sense.

He was introduced by ex-Governor Tyler, who paid a high tribute to his loyalty, his courage and faithfulness to duty, as friend, soldier and statesman, and one who bad loyally supported the candidates of the Southwest, himself for Governor and Judge Phlegar for the candidates of the Southwest, himself for Governor and Judge Phlegar for the Court of Appeals. He made an excellent speech, addressing the audience as a friend and neighbor and commending to them his tried and true friend, Virginia's Lieutenant-Governor.

Colonel Willard said, in beginning, that he had nothing to say against his opponents, but simply asked the audience to consider his fitness for the office. He would submit his record, of which he was not ashamed, he said, and state the principles for which he stood, leaving it principles for which he stood, leaving it principles for which he stood, leaving to his hearers to decide between him and his opponents.

He discussed education, good roads and the progress of Virginia in a most interesting, sensible and businessilke manner, and declared that if he was elected Governor, fair dealing towards every man should be his object, and that he would give all his energy and ability to the advancement of the State's best interests. His address rung irue and made a fine impression on his audience. His sincerity and earnestness, his patriolism and business ability appealed to all who heard him, and doubtless won him many votes. Lieutenant-Governor Willard has made warm friends in Radford, and will be gladly welcomed back. While in the city he was the guest of ex-Governor Tyler.

With the view of making preperations for the outing at Amelia, the R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, met in their hall last night at 8:30 o'clock, Commander James Vass presiding. Exercises were preceded by a prayer from Rev. W. B. Freeman. Minutes were then read and approved, after which a circular was received in reference to the unveiling of the Confederate monument at Amelia to-day. The secretary read a letter from Henry Robinson, of No. 2415 North Eighteenth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. asking information about the Tennessee regiment that was in front of Fort Harrison in 1864. This regiment desires to return a captured flag to General William McComb, Gordonsville, Va. Another letter was received from Commander William Kean, of the Louisa Camp, Confederate Veterans, July 11, 1905, in which a cordial invitation was extended the Lee Camp to attend the unveiling of the farmers' Confederate monument at Louisa Courthouse on Thursday, August 17th. Comrade Dead accepted the invitation. Dr. C. W. P. Brock was requested to deliver a war talk at such time as best suited his convenience.

QUESTION OF BEDFORD HOME IS HELD OVER

(By Associated Press.)

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 14.—The Elks attending the nineteenth annual reunion were entertained by the Ningara Falls Lodge to-day. Before final adjoirnment the question of the abandonment of the national home at Bedfords Via., was discussed, many favoring its continuance, but definite action was postponed until next year. A resolution was adopted recommending that the age limit for admission to the home be reduced.

More Chickens Arrested. Officer Matthews, of the Second District, arrested a coop containing seven half-grown chickens last night. The prisoners were taken to the station where they can be secured if the property ball is fur-

The cofficer was chasing a negro through the altey between Broad and Grace and Fourth and Fifth Streets last night when he saw the man drop the coop of chickens. Dodging behind some buildings the negro made his escape, but the officer captured the booty. Some Strange War Bets. Some extraordinary bets have been made on the Japanese-Russian war. A number of Japanese officers have bet number of Japanese officers have bet that they would be killed in battle. The money was to go to their widows. One officer, on starting for the front, made the following wager: If he was killed within a month his heirs were to receive $500. After that date he was to pay his opponent ten yen ($5) a day until he had survived one hundred days, after which the bet was to cease. He undertook to expose himself to danger only when military conditions demanded it; in other words, he would not wilfully let himself be killed.

An Anti-Baby League.

England has an anti-baby league. They propose that the government shall take active steps to decrease the birth-rate, and that a penalty he inflicted on those who "over-burden society with more than their fair share of offspring."

Tiger Bone Soup.

Tiger Bone Soup.

"Incredulous" has read somewhers that broth derived from tigers" bones when consumed at all meals renders a man a "nerfect Hercules," "We are surprised to hear it. However, a bellef is certainly prevalent in remote parts of China that a so-called "tonic" made from the bones of tigers imparts to the individual who doses himself with it some of the tiger's scenting of the kind, but faith travels a long way, and no doubt many of those with the concoction imagine that they are gradually acquiring a few of that animal's qualities.
